

Models showcase GG by Asha Gautam's collection

A MELANGE OF TRADITIONAL AND MODERN

Millennial silhouettes and timeless fabrics define this collection, giving it a fresh look

Presenting ensembles that merge Indian textiles and modern sensibilities, GG By Asha Gautam showcased their spring summer collection at HT City Club Fashion Nights 2019 at Roar Nightclub, Eros Hotel. Structured jackets with skirts, dhotis, asymmetrical tops, this luxury prêt and fusion wear had silhouettes and cuts for millennials. The textiles used in the collection include Chanderi, Brocade, Kaitan Silk, Matka Silk, Munga Georgette, Bandhani Georgette, Ikat and others. Stiffer fabrics are used for structure, whereas for dhotis and drapes, fluid fabrics such as modal satin and Banarasi georgettes are used.

Talking about the collection, designer Gautam Gupta said, "The collection is a mix of pastels, festive and nude shades, and hence we used colours such as pale blush, cameo rose, seedling green, warm sand etc. As mentioned, the intent was to give the collection a fresh look so lot of experimentation was done on the textiles. Easy yet stylish wear for women

Discover new styles, fresh fabrics and design details with Cantabil's women's wear collection — Crozo. A perfect balance between comfort and style continues to dominate the collection's office-wear wardrobe. The premium range of formal suits, structured with the perfect curves, uses fabrics in both checks and plains. The collection also has woven and knitted tops, dresses, tunics, wide-legged pants, denims, kurtis and palazzos, reflecting the current trend. The use of superior materials and cuts adds sophistication and gives the garments an office-to-club versatility, which means the potential to transition from formal office types to an evening popover. Its appeal is rooted in easy yet stylish dressing, oversized proportions of bell sleeves — as sleeves are the perfect vehicle for expressing newness — flowy peplum tops, contemporary prints and stripes. With 'buy more, feel better' sentiments increasingly influencing the way people shop, it is becoming clear that freshness of design and ease of wear lead the way, areas where Crozo claims to give you all.
